To achieve the Standards, 3 Standards must be met.

- It is mandatory for Feature Films and immersive non-fiction projects to meet Standards C and E. The mandatory sections of this document are clearly labelled and highlighted in pink.
- All Standards A-E include selected criteria that must be fulfilled in order to meet that Standard.

You should make reference to the entire project, not just work being done in the UK or by a UK crew. Any work being done across any of the Standards by any co-producing partners is relevant.

Concessions may also be made for projects with crews of under 25 people. Please indicate where this is relevant to your project.

Even where elements are not mandatory, or concessions are being made, you should still try to respond to as many criteria as possible.

You should indicate the relevant underrepresented groups in each response you give.

You can find the full film criteria and guidance here. Please read this guidance before you start filling in this section, as it includes examples for each of the criteria.

Diversity Standard A

On-screen representation, themes and narratives

This standard relates to how the project will address under-representation, notably the lead and secondary contributors or subjects, casting choices, the main and secondary storylines, themes, and narratives and where the film is set. Identify where there are unfamiliar subjects or themes and narratives that are not frequently portrayed on-screen or are shown from a new perspective.

Describe where there are meaningful and non-stereotypical representations of subjects or contributors who are portrayed with nuance. Detail the perspective of the narrative or theme of the project and how this affects the way in which subjects or contributors are portrayed. While Standard A is not mandatory, all applicants are encouraged to complete it.

For documentaries, concessions may be made regarding the mandatory element. This depends on casting requirements for the project.

For Standard A: Meet at least 3 of the 6 criteria below, of which A6 is mandatory.

Diversity Standard B

Creative Leadership and Project Team

This Standard relates to how the project will address under-representation throughout its team: from Creative Leadership and Senior Management to secondary and junior roles across the board, including the creation of regional employment outside of Greater London and the South-East of England.

Intersectional representation is a vital consideration in this Standard, to reflect opportunities to those possessing multiple layers of underrepresentation (such as women of colour, younger LGBTQIA+ folk from lower socioeconomic backgrounds, etc.).

At the same time, avoiding stereotypical representation and breaking gender stereotypes for certain roles is important. We also consider roles designed to ensure the safeguarding and protection of its team especially those from vulnerable and/or under-represented groups.

Where roles have yet to be confirmed, provide details of the intended roles that will be offered, in what departments and the approach to recruitment for these roles, e.g. the types of outreach, as well as barriers removed.

Include information on additional support for safeguarding and wellbeing measures, access requirements, including travel, and interventions being made for primary caregivers e.g. job-share opportunities, flexible working arrangements and family related considerations.

Completing this Standard does not require naming any individuals.

Where the total crew size is fewer than 25, allowances will be made in terms of the number of individuals required to meet a criteria.

Such projects would still need to provide as much information as possible against this Standard in their application.

You should mention all crew, not just UK crew, or crew directly hired by the UK co-producer.

While Standard B is not mandatory, all applicants are encouraged to complete it.

A real commitment to making a project accessible to as wide an audience as possible should be demonstrated.

Standard D is primarily for productions that have a distributor attached. Diversity Standard E Accessibility

Standard E emphasises the importance of taking intentional and proactive action to increase accessibility across every aspect of the film or immersive non-fiction project's life cycle, its production, and its release. For example, it covers how accessibility is addressed and adhered to with regards to on-screen character portrayal or storylines or how people are being interviewed, hired, and cast. It covers workplace considerations, comprising creative leadership, crew, film team members and other film project roles. It covers how training and development programmes, interventions, and career opportunities are offered and executed.

Going beyond Standard D, this standard requires evidence of conscious commitment and tangible actions to improve overall accessibility. It is important to detail the strategies, access plans and interventions that go beyond specific requirements or any contractual minimums for funding.

Please see guidance notes for further examples.

Standard E is mandatory for all applicants.
